Carge Short Interests Were Prompted to Reduce Short Lines.

NEW YORK, February 24 .- There name a check to-day to the disorderly Alquidation which was rushing the market into a state of entire demoralisation. The perception that the course of yesterday's market, if continued, would lead to that result prompted some measures of effective support to-day. The large short interest which had grown rapidly with the swift fall in prices for a week past were prompted to reduce their short lines with the signs of great stability in the market. This demand was a potent influence in the recovery of prices. The demand came, however, after an early period of great turmoil, when it seemed an unsettled question whether the downward plunge of yesterday should be of yesterday's market, if continued, unsettled question whether the downward plunge of yesterday should be continued or a violent rebound substituted. London, apparently, was as gonfused over the outlook as our own market, and a sharp relapse there from a former advance, coming just before the New York market opened, had much to do with the feverish fluctuations of the forenoon market.

There was a better feeling over the steel trade outlook. With the recovering tendency distinctly shaped, the requirements of the large uncovered bear interest must be looked to for execution of the extent to which the rally ran. The money market was unaffected by the large operations of the day.

Last prices were dearer than yesterday to the extent of $5 a share for Reading, $2 for Sieel, and some of the minor steel industrials, and from $2 to $3 a share for the prominent railfoad

The bond market was irregular.

COTTON MARKETS.

NEW TORK, February 21—The cotton market was nervous and unsettled to-day, but after quite a sharp break during the middle session the lost was recovered with the close very steady, net unchanged to 4 points higher. The opening was steady at an advance of point to a decline of 1 point, which was as about due on the cables, but after some early irregularity the market weakened under reports that Southern spinners would meet at Charlotte to-morrow to discuss curtailment rumors of short time in the South and a renewal of Wall Street Houldardton. Step-loss orders were uncevered or the decline and the old crop sellers appeared to be buying late months, which also received support, owing to the continued absence of sealth of the continued absence of sealth and the clovery sold steady and sold only 354 points under the closing figures. A rally to about last might's finals was followed by a dip, when Southern spot markets reported early were seen to be 14 to 34 lower, but in the last half, hour the transfer improved on covering with Ing late months, which also received support, owing to the continued absence of socking raims in the Southwest, with the result that the delivery soid steady and soid only 364 points under the classing figures. A rally to about last night's finals was followed by a dip, when Southern spot markets reported early were seen to be to take the class that hour the market improved on covering with the active months touching the best prices of the day, and closing at practically the top, sales for the day were estimated at about 29,000 bales. Nearly all the large communission houses were beavy sellers at times, probably representing the liquidation of old lengs who had become discouraged by the recent failure of the narket to make head, war on the bull side, and the unscrited condition of the steel trade.

Miss Metz was herself the principal witness. She told the jurors that for twenty years Meisberger paid court to her, and was the most affectionate kind of a sweetheart. The plaintiff said she frequently wanted to know when the marriage ceremony would occur, and that her sultor replied with promises. Last year he married an Ashland girl, and then Miss Metz recently decided to sue for breach of promise.
